Deliveries

Sex toys
There is nothing better than a bizzard party. In bed. With your new fling. Except for a bizzard party in bed with your fling and some adult toys. If only someone were willing to bring vibrators, under-the-bed restraints and a sex harness (hmm, sounds interesting) to your door. Never fear, oh privileged New Yorkers, Baalbland (babalond.com; Manhattan, parts of Brooklyn) will deliver sex toys locally within three hours for a 30-buck fee.

DVOs
Don’t risk running into the boss out on the mean streets. Instead, order in some videos from the newly named We Deliver Videos (212-860-4600, wedelivervideos.com; Upper East and Upper West Sides). In less than an hour you can have The Notebook or Who’s Naffin’ Payin’—your call. Purchase a block of ten rentals for $39.99.

Bodega staples
We know how annoying it is when a Willy-B house party runs out of Tropicanas. And it’s even worse to trek half a block to the corner bodega in subzero temps for more. Luckily, the folks at Anything NY (718-270-7727, anything-ny.com; Williamsburg and Greenpoint, Brooklyn) will deliver juice (if you want PB&J you’ll have to wait till they get a liquor license this spring) and smokes to your Brooklyn doorstep anytime between 4pm and 2am Sun-Thurs and 4pm to 5am Fri-Sat. Plus, they take credit cards and have late-night grub. Minimum purchase is $19 and there’s no delivery fee.

In Bushwick and Williamsburg, Hyperbodega (hyperbodega.com; 10pm-4.30am) will raid your neighborhood store for you. You order online, get a quote for a surcharge based on the number, type and cost of items, and pay in cash on delivery. The only thing you’ll miss is your relationship with your deli guy.

Menhattanites are used to satisfying their cravings for Murray’s Cheese or Sugar Sweet Sunshine cupcakes on a moment’s notice. Order online from Max Delivery (maxdelivery.com; Manhattan below W34th St and E 26th St) and you can have pretty much anything all day or in an hour. Delivery for orders of more than $75 is free, anything under will cost you a whopping $2.95.

Haute cuisine
It’s easy to get into a rut with your local Chinese takeout—by an upgrade. Add 20 percent to your tab, and in less than an hour Daio-Dinner (212-643-1222; Manhattan) will send you a complete meal from any of more than 200 upscale restaurants. Like the Palm and Cipriani. You can watch Lifetime movies and snack on fine grain in bed, or invite friends over and pretend you’re a gourmet cook. Just make sure you trash the containers.

Services

Stripper
Why not surprise yourself with a Strip-o-Gram for a little Sunday-funday treat? Come on, you deserve it. Strippers NYC (212-942-4370 ext 76, strippersnyc.com; times may vary) will send you any variety of tricks or lashes, from belly dancers to supersuited babydolls. It’s $250 for a half-hour. Show the menu for the services.

Cooking classes
Become a master of French bistro cuisine or Spanish tapas in your own kitchen. The chef at Home Cooking New York (917-853-6857, homecookingnyc.com; all five boroughs) will visit your apartment and teach you to whip up a delicious feast. The goal is to show New Yorkers how to work with what they’ve got (in our case, a hot pot, an oven used for sweater storage and a bottle of rotlok). Apparently, you can cook in your tiny Kitchen. Just don’t blow it by forgetting to order the ingredients from FreshDirect. A three-hour class for you and a friend will run $300.

Fitness trainer
Ugh, going to the gym is such a drag. Who wants to be juggling, red-faced and panting on the treadmill in front of all those cuties? Never mind the horror of knowing the world your desperate attempts to be coordinated in the klackoing class. Hire a personal trainer to come to your apartment so you can be humiliated in private. Then, show off your new bod when it finally gets warmer. Try the trainers from Physical Equilibrium (917-774-6827, physically.com; all five boroughs) for one-on-one sessions.

Personal shopping
Personal shoppers don’t have to be ridiculously expensive. Karen J. Mann (917-797-6665, karenjmann.com; Manhattan) doesn’t believe that style has to do with price. She says fashion is all about personal style and knowing your look, and she’s willing to do the grunt work for you. If you still haven’t found a dress for that wedding or a hot number to make your ex drool, give Mann a call—he’ll make the purchases and bring them back to you for review for $85 per hour.

Therapy
If those damn mommy issues are making it hard to embrace your peculiar brand of agoraphobic behavior, consider a few hours of therapy. For counseling on your own comfiest couch, dig up dawn-k-brng therapist L.C.S.W. (917-324-6656, therapiestcallnyc.com; Manhattan, Queens). If you’ve got a webcam and an Internet connection, Clay Crockel L.C.S.W. (917-685-8461, onlinepsychotherapy.com) offers online appointments, priced on a sliding scale.

Hair care
Just because you’re hibernating doesn’t mean you should adopt the rat’s nest-hermit-hair look. Eventually, the trees will blossom, and you’ll want to step out looking your best. The genius at Frederic Fekkai (212-753-9500, fekkai.com; all five boroughs) brings the salon to you, though at around three times-in-salon prices, the service might not fit your recessionist budget. You may be better off having Max Ottavino bring you a box of L’Oreal, Erand running
The motto at Cross It Off Your List lifestyle management company (212-725-0122, crossitoffyourlist.com; times vary) is “Put it on your must-do list, then do it.” For 65 to 95 bucks an hour, they’ll run your errands, find an impossible-to-find item or even take a stab at organizing your closets.

Pet grooming
Are you the kind of New Yorker who makes homemade organic dog food? We know you’re out there, and this service is right up your alley. Village Pet Spa (212-920-6585, petgroomingnyc.com; Manhattan, Brooklyn, Queens) offers skunk-skin animal makeovers, with services including pedicures, massage and aromatherapy services. After all, if the bone-chilling cold freezez your nerves, it probably isn’t too thrilling for Fidos, either. Baker/Brown (212-661-7651; Thieves brings bottles of lavender to soothe animals and their owners; services start at $85.

Tailoring
Getting alterations on a dress or having a pair of pants hemmed is annoying on a normal day. In the winter, when you have to peel off layers of clothing and outerwear in a tiny fitting room, it’s even more of a nuisance. Beyond Bespoke (914-472-5909, beyondbespoke.com; Manhattan, Brooklyn, Queens, Staten Island) sends a qualified tailor to your home for no extra charge if your alterations cost $100 or more (otherwise there’s a $50 fee). The company offers free alteration estimates too. Manhattan dwellers can also try Shmali’s Custom Tailors Ltd. (212-935-0379, bnbambi.com; $75 brower fee).

Massage
You have to go to a crowded public spa to have the hot-end experience. The city has an abundance of massage therapists that will come to you. Try The New York Massage Company (212-427-8715, nymassage.com) for $100 per hour. Or give reflexology or prenatal massage a shot with NY Healing Touch (646-217-2533, nynhealingtouch.com), which travels to all five boroughs.

Tech repair
That high-pitched wheezing coming from your computer sure doesn’t sound good. Before you brave the cold in search of the closest Genius Bar, try repair service Laptop MD (212-920-4633, laptopmd.com; Manhattan, Brooklyn, Queens). The MDs will fix your ailing computer on the spot or take it back to their workshop, and the $90 visit fee goes toward the cost of repairs. For what else your finest, most precious computer—meaning your darling MP3 player, of course—by the pediatrician of the computer-repair world, the iPod Doctor (646-202-9365, myipoddoctor.com; Manhattan). Repairs start at $45.

Karaoke
Whether you’ve been permanently kicked out of Second on Second or karaoke for one too many “freewheelin” performances (and no, we won’t call you “Skynyrd” for short) or are just too embarrassed to let others hear you walk, you can now sing in the privacy of your own home. Karaoke Champ (212-375-0091, karaokechamp.com) will provide a karaoke player, amplifier, speakers, monitor, microphones and up to 17,000 songs, starting at $245 for a full day.

December 14, 2009

Comment  Share on  Digg  Pet

Comments
There are no comments

Also check out